

The Coming of the Lord

Eliza H. Morton, 1894, alt.

Flora Eva Hamilton Cassel

♩=82

1. Do you hear the mighty clash - ing Of the
2. All the plans of so - cial schem - ers, All the 3. What the out - come of the con - flict? What the thoughts of men of power? Do you see the o - mens thick - ening Of a strug - gles of the years, All the verse of po - et dream - ers Are ob - end, ah, who can say? We may read in liv - ing let - ters, We may cri - sis ev - ery hour? What is this? and what the oth - er? Why this

- scured with doubts and fears. And the world is wait - ing, breath - less, For an know, yea, know to - day! More than mor - tal words pro - claim it, Re - ve - strange un - rest a - broad? Ah, the signs fore - tell the com - ing, Yes, the ev - o - lu - tion vast: Wrought in God, and like an an - chor, In a

- la - tions from our God, All the signs fore - tell the com - ing, Yes, the

Refrain

com - ing of the Lord.
 migh - ty cur - rent cast. Oh, the com - ing, oh the com - ing, All the com - ing of the Lord.

signs fore - tell the com - ing, Yes, the com - ing of the Lord. All the signs fore - tell the com - ing, Yes, the com - ing of the Lord.