

Eternity's Night

A. F. Ferris, 1891, rev. L. L. Pickett 1897

Ella Bute Bishop

♩ = 75

1. O sin - ner, re - mem - ber, though fair be life's day, There's on - ly one step to the
 2. On the edge of per - di - tion now blind - ly you tread, Its fi - res how fear - ful they
 3. Oh, e - ter - ni - ty's dark - ness! Its gloom doth af - fright, No star beams of hope from on
 4. Oh, e - ter - ni - ty's dark - ness now falls on the shore, The twi - light be - gins to ap - 5. The Sav - ior is plead - ing; there's mer - cy to - day, 'Tis Je - sus in - vites you to tomb; Thy life like a va - por will soon pass a - way, Then com - eth e - ter - ni - ty's gleam; Ah, soon you will be with the num - ber - less dead, Where Je - sus can ne - ver re - high; No morn - ing shall dawn on the gloom with its light, There com - eth no sweet by and

 - pear; Soon there will be mer - cy, sweet mer - cy no more, But dark - ness and death draw - eth come; Oh, flee to His bos - om and walk in His way, 'Twill lead to the heav - en - ly

Refrain

- gloom.
 deem. To be lost in the night, in "e - ter - ni - ty's night," To sink in des - pair and in
 by. Last: To be saved from the night, from "e - ter - ni - ty's night," And to walk 'mid the splen - dors a - night.
 home.

- woe! But such is thy doom, if you turn from the light, En - joy - ing His mer - cy and love.
 - bove! To dwell in His grace and a - bide in His light, En - joy - ing His mer - cy and love.