1. A young man stands at the part-ing of the ways, And fa - ther and mo - ther are
2. A - gain he stands at the part-ing of the ways, One lead-eth to death and des-
3. Once more he stands at the part-ing of the ways, And one way is shroud-ed in there; With tears in their eyes they anx - ious - ly gaze, While pair; The oth - er one leads to hon - or and praise, And gloom; The oth - er way shines in Heav - en's bright rays, And a
