

Thy Breath, O Lamb, as Rushing Wind

Stephen Popovich, 2016

Carl Gläser, 1828, arr. by Lowell Mason, 1839

♩=100

1. Thy breath, O Lamb, as rush-ing wind Des - cen - deth from a - bove With
2. As wa - ter rains o'er bar - ren earth, Its vi - sage to re - claim, So
3. That in our heart this Trin-i - ty Of wa - ter, blood and breath, Might
4. That in Thee is e - ter - nal life Thou giv - est all who come By
5. 'Tis of this trea - sure love is sown Whose leaves in me un - furl; A 6. Lo, God's right hand through na - ture frail Doth tend be - night-ed ground. Its tongue of fi - re to ex - tend Through ves - sels washed in blood.

words of life in man re - turn To man - i - fest Thy name.
tes - ti - fy a mys - te - ry To souls un - done by death.
sim - ple faith, and through Thee find The prom-ised Three in One.
wit - ness so the lost might know God's mer - cy for this world.
light and life will vic - tory hail By fruit and gold - en crowns.